

~~~MEET A MEMBER MONDAY!~~~

Most of you may already know him but for those that don't... meet Simon Fox, Community Association Manager with Draper and Kramer, currently managing the 990 Lake Shore Drive Condo Association. Simon joined IREM at the urgings of our own Brian Lozell as a way to deepen his knowledge of real estate management and expand his professional network. Having managed commercial property and acquiring one for a high-rise in Lake Shore East, he recognized the importance of staying current with industry trends. IREM's focus on education, certification, and networking perfectly aligns with his goals for professional growth and offers valuable resources to connect with experienced professionals.

Simon shared what inspired him to enter property management, "My background in the UK Naval Service taught me valuable skills in leadership, organization, and problem-solving, which I applied when transitioning into property management. As a Community Association Manager with Draper and Kramer, I found that managing high-rise communities shares similarities with ship management, such as overseeing operations, coordinating resources, and maintaining a smooth environment. I enjoy building relationships and ensuring everything runs efficiently for residents."

FUN FACT about Simon: "I've always been passionate about running and Skiing, and I'm excited to now share them with my family. It's been a lot of fun introducing them to these hobbies and creating lasting memories together, whether we're hitting the sidewalks or skiing down the slopes."
